ABSTRACT

Fifty modules are presented for increasing the cultural and linguistic fluency of English-as-a-Second-Language (ESL) students by integrating cultural awareness activities with language practice. The modules are intended for international students at an intermediate language level; they can, however, be used or adapted for beginning or advanced international students. The modules are based on two assumptions: (1) ESL students need to learn about the culture in which they are living; (2) language learning best occurs in meaningful contexts. Because cultural knowledge is needed information for ESL students as well as the context for establishing meaning in language usage, it is the primary focus of the language lesson. The lessons are divided into two broad categories: educational (Douglas College, educational preparation) and social (host family, social adaptation). The individual modules are one-page interactive lessons that combine cultural awareness activities with predominantly oral language practice. The format is standardized, usually consisting of opening questions to introduce students to the topic; directions for completing the main activity; the main activity, which is intended to develop students' cultural awareness; and follow-up activities for students to apply the new knowledge. I would like to gratefully acknowledge the assistance of my colleague, Linda Ironside, who first proposed this project and contributed significantly to its original version. I would also like to thank the following people: members of the Innovative Funds Committee at Douglas College for their support of the initial draft; my ESL colleagues at both Douglas and the University of British Columbia Language Institute for their enthusiastic support and helpful feedback (especially Patricia Fodor); Tad Hosoi, Manager of the Center for International Education at Douglas College for his support and assistance in applying for the Small Project Grant from ACCC; members of the ACCC for their support of the revision and publication of the materials; Professors Bernie Mohan and Mary Ashworth of U.B.C., my graduate advisors, for their encouragement of the project; and the secretaries, Judy Murray and Jan Gara, for their patience with the typing. Finally, I would like to thank Tony Power, my husband and "in-house editor", for his support throughout the project and my children, Hope, Maria and John, for their cooperation.

iv

The goal of these modules is to concurrently increase the cultural and linguistic fluency of ESL students by integrating cultural awareness activities with language practice. The modules are intended for international students at an intermediate language level; they can, however, be used or adapted for beginning or advanced international/community students. They are based on two assumptions: 1) ESL students need to learn about the culture in which they are living; 2) language learning best occurs in meaningful contexts. Because cultural knowledge is needed information for ESL students as well as the context for establishing meaning in language usage; it is the primary focus of the module lessons. The language practice is secondary.

In developing a framework for the cultural content of the lessons, the guiding principle was to assist students in becoming educationally successful and socially adjusted, as well as in learning English as a second language. Two broad categories emerged, namely, SOCIAL and EDUCATIONAL. Each of these was divided into a general and specific content area: EDUCATIONAL consisting of "Educational Preparation" and "Douglas College"; SOCIAL consisting of "Social Adaptation" and "Host Family". Within these areas, fifty topics (25 Social and 25 Educational) were developed based on students' specific needs. These needs were determined from a variety of sources including: ESL teaching materials and readings on teaching culture and intercultural communication; Linda Ironside's experience teaching EFL in China; my own experience living and adapting to different cultures; interviews with Douglas College counsellors; host families' written evaluations of their resident students; and suggestions from colleagues at Douglas College and the University of British Columbia.

The individual modules are one-page interactive lessons that combine cultural awareness activities with predominantly oral language practice. The format is standardized, usually consisting of OPENING QUESTIONS to introduce students to the topic; DIRECTIONS for completing the main activity; the MAIN ACTIVITY which is intended to develop students' cultural awareness; and FOLLOW-UP activities for students to apply the new knowledge. Because the lessons are designed to heighten students' cultural awareness, the activities generally are exploratory and open-ended, requiring the teacher to respond to varying levels of students' cultural fluency. An Answer Key is included in the text for lessons with close-ended activities.

Though intended primarily for use as self-contained intercultural orientation lessons, the modules are also designed to be readily used for other ESL pedagogical purposes. For example, they may be assigned as PREPARATORY HOMEWORK - e.g. prior to a library tour or library lab assignment students could complete the "Library Skills and the Douglas College Library Handout" (8) module. Or, they may be used as TRANSITIONAL DEVICES - e.g. in order to prepare students for an in-class written assignment students could complete the "Feelings About Speaking English in the New Culture" (41) module. They can also be used as FOLLOW-UP activities - e.g. if students were to unsatisfactorily complete a contact assignment "Making Contact With Native Speakers (45) could serve as a "repair" lesson or be assigned for homework. In short, because the modules are flexibly designed, they can be used in most ESL programs in a variety of ways.

A. Sequencing: Admission and Registration Procedures

The following are some of the steps which must be followed in order to officially register in courses at Douglas College. They are not listed in the correct order. Put them in the right order by numbering which you would have to do first, second, third, and so forth. There are six steps in total.

Do you know your way around Douglas College?

Directions: See how familiar you are with the campus by answering the following questions. You may work with a classmate.
Write your answers in the space provided.

Questions: Campus Orientation

1. Where is the bookstore? Between what hours is it open?

2. Where is the main cafeteria? Between what hours is it open?

3. Where is the Gym? What facilities does it have?

4. Where are the change rooms and lockers?

5. Where is the Library? What hours is it open?

6. Where is the Security Office?

7. Where is the Student Society Office?

8. Where is the Language Lab?

9. Where is the Registrar's Office?

10. Where is the main ESL Office?

Contact Assignment: You may not have been able to answer all of the above questions. For those you could not answer, find out by asking someone at the college.

DOUGLAS COLLEGE: Career Plans and Douglas College Programs (3)

What are your career plans for the future? What sort of job do you hope to work at? How does being a student at Douglas College fit in with these plans?

Directions: Interview your classmate and have your classmate interview you to complete the following ideas.

Incomplete Sentences: Career Plans and Douglas College Programs

1. I want to be a _____

2. I want to improve my English because _____

3. I am going to Douglas College because _____

4. I need to make grades which _____

5. I can take other non-ESL courses after _____

6. After I am finished with my ESL courses, I want to take _____

7. After I finish my courses at Douglas, I will _____

8. I will feel pleased when I _____

Task: After you have completed the above activity, share with your classmate(s) why you have chosen or are considering a particular career.

DOUGLAS COLLEGE: ESL Discipline Information (4)

How familiar are you with the ESL Discipline?

DIRECTIONS: Working together with your classmate(s), try to answer the following questions.

A. Information Questions: ESL Discipline

1. What is the telephone number of the ESL Discipline?
2. What are the office hours?
3. What is the name of the receptionist?
4. What is the name of the language and cultural assistant?
5. What is the room number of the ESL Discipline?
6. Where can you obtain information about ESL courses?
7. Who are the instructors in the ESL Discipline?
8. What should you do when you need to contact an instructor?

B. Information Questions: ESL Reading and Writing Lab

1. Where is the Reading and Writing Lab located?
2. Who can use the lab?
3. What hours is the lab open?
4. What language skills can you work on in the lab?
5. When are instructors present in the lab to assist students?

Contact Assignment: You may not have been able to answer all of the above questions. For those you could not answer, find out by asking someone who works in the ESL Discipline.

Are you familiar with the grading systems used at Douglas College?

Directions: Obtain a copy of the Douglas College Calendar and find the section on grades. Then, with your classmate(s), try to find the answers to the questions below.

Information Questions: Douglas College Grading System

1. The ESL Discipline gives out the following grades to students: UN, W, I, MAS, NCG, EXP, and AUD. What do these grades mean?

2. See if you can match the above grades with a situation below:

- a) A student stops coming to class, doesn't tell anyone why, and doesn't complete the course requirements. _____
- b) A student has been registered only to attend classes and has done so. _____
- c) A student drops a course before the official deadline. _____
- d) A student does not complete the assignments for a course. _____
- e) A student works hard, but does not master the level of skills required to pass the course. _____

3. What is a GPA? What is a cumulative GPA? How are they calculated?

4. Which grades are calculated in a GPA? Which are not?

5. What is your GPA?

Task: Now, look again at the section on grades in the Douglas College Calendar to find out what other types of grades are given to students.

Questions: Does the Douglas College grading system differ from the system(s) used in your own country? If so, how?

Most colleges and universities issue a book called a 'calendar' containing information about all aspects of the college, including programs, courses, requirements, services, tuition fees, etc.

Directions: After obtaining a copy of the current Douglas College Calendar, look through it to find the answers to the following questions. You may work with a classmate.

Information Questions: Douglas College Calendar

1. How many semesters are there each year? How long is each? When does each begin and end?

2. How much do courses cost for international students?

3. What information does the registration orientation offer new students?

4. What are some of the resources available to help students choose a career or occupation?

5. What kinds of counselling does Douglas College provide? When are the counsellors available to talk to students?

6. What kinds of programs are offered at Douglas College?

7. Are all courses offered every semester? Where can you find out which courses are being offered? How soon before each term can you find out this information?

8. What kinds of programs does the ESL Discipline offer?

9. Who would you go to see to help you with course and program planning?

Task: Share whatever other useful information you found out in the calendar with your classmate(s).

DOUGLAS COLLEGE: Information in the Student Handbook (7)

As a student at Douglas College, you will need to know about the kinds of services available to students at the college.

Directions: Obtain a recent copy of the Student Handbook from the Student Society Office. Look through the handbook. Then, with your classmate(s), see if you can find the following information.

Information Questions: Student Handbook

1. Where can you get a student identification card? What does it allow you to do?

2. Where is the New Westminster Canada Games Pool located?

3. Does the Student Society Office have public transit schedules? Does it sell Farecards and Faresavers?

4. What is the smoking policy at Douglas?

5. Where are the two toll-free telephones for students located?

6. Which office should you go to in an emergency situation or if you have lost something? Where is it located?

7. What kinds of athletic facilities are available at Douglas?

8. What kinds of services does the Counselling Office provide?

Question: Do you think that Douglas College offers enough services for students? If not, what do you think is missing?

In order to study effectively at a college, it is necessary that you know how to use the library. The following exercise will help familiarize you with the Douglas College Library.

Directions: Obtain a free copy of the Douglas College Library Handout. Then try to answer the questions below. You may work together with a classmate.

Information Questions: Douglas College Library Handout

1. What is the microcatalogue a list of?

2. What are the three main microcatalogues used for listing library materials?

3. For how long can you take out circulating materials?

4. If an item you want is not immediately available, what can you do to obtain it? How long will it take to get the material?

5. What are reserve materials?

6. Why are the librarians present in the library?

7. What is a periodical?

8. What is an interlibrary loan? How long does it take to obtain materials this way?

9. What kinds of audio-visual materials does the Douglas College Library have? How long can these materials be borrowed for?

10. What three other services does the library offer to students?

Questions: Where would you find books on the history of Canada? If you were standing near the bookshelves marked PR 8900-9349, you would find books on what subject?

EDUCATIONAL PREPARATION: Class and Seminar Participation (9)

What kind of a student are you in class? Do you talk a lot? Do you let the teacher know when you know the answer to a question? Are you a shy student? Find out what your level of class or seminar participation is by completing the activity below.

Directions: Interview your classmate and have your classmate interview you to determine whether you are more of an active or passive participant in class or seminars. After each question, circle the answer YES or NO.

Yes/No Interview Questions: Class and Seminar Participation

- | | |
|--|--------|
| 1. Are you a shy student? | Yes No |
| 2. Do you ask questions? | Yes No |
| 3. Are you a leader in class discussions or activities? | Yes No |

Task: Now, using your partner's responses, rate his or her level of class/seminar participation on a scale of 1-10. (10 is the highest and 1 is the lowest score.)

Question: Are you an active or passive participant in classes or seminars? EXPLAIN.

Discuss: Being an active participant is necessary for learning.

EDUCATIONAL PREPARATION: Individual Goals and Evaluations for Learning English (11)

What are you doing on your own to help yourself learn English? Do you have specific goals that you are trying to attain in learning English? What are they? How are you trying to attain them? Are you having success?

Directions: List five specific goals you have for improving your English. Then, list an activity which you will do to accomplish each of these goals. Next, write down the amount of time you will spend doing each activity. Finally, rate your performance for each goal every week on a scale of 1-10. (10 is the highest score and 1 is the lowest.) See the example below.

GOALS	ACTIVITY	FREQUENCY	NUMBER OF WEEKS
			1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
e.g. to improve my speaking	by talking to native speakers	for one hour every day
3)
4)
5)

Questions: Are you having success in achieving your language goals? Do you think your goals are realistic or unrealistic? Why? Why not?

Task: If you have not been very successful in achieving your goals, have your classmate(s) help you to decide upon some other realistic goals for yourself.

*Adapted from a U.B.C. Language Institute workshop given by Tracy Defoe, 1983.

EDUCATIONAL PREPARATION: Learning English as a Foreign and as a Second Language (12)

As an English-as-a-Second Language student, you may find that studying English in an English-speaking country is quite different from studying it at home. How is it different? You can answer this question by completing the activity below.

Directions: Working together in pairs, ask one another the following questions. Write your partner's answers in the space provided.

Interview Questions: Learning English as a Foreign and as a Second Language

1. For how long did you study English in your own country or elsewhere?

2. How did you learn English in your own country? What kinds of exercises did you do? What kinds of activities?

3. What helped you most to learn English in your own country?

4. How are you being taught English in an English-speaking country? What kinds of activities are you doing? What kinds of exercises?

5. How is learning English here different from learning it at home?

6. How is your English improving here?

7. What helps you most to learn English here? Why do you think so?

8. What do you think are your strong areas in English? Why?

9. What do you think are your weak areas in English? Why?

10. What would you suggest your friends at home do in order to improve their English?

Task: Now, together with your classmate(s), write down a list of activities you can do while you are here which can improve your fluency in English. Write this list down on the back of this page. Be prepared to share it with the rest of the class.

How often do you listen to English outside of the classroom? What kinds of listening activities do you do? How do you go about understanding what you have heard? How do you remember what you have heard? What do good listeners do? See if you can answer these questions by completing the following activity.

Directions: Working together with a classmate, interview one another to find out your answers to the questions below. Write your classmate's answers in the space provided.

Interview Questions: Listening Skills and Strategies

1. What is listening? _____
2. What do you mostly listen to? _____

3. What do you do when you listen? _____

4. What do you think good listeners do when they listen? _____

5. When are you best able to remember what you have heard? Why?

6. When listening to something, what do you write down to help you remember? _____

7. What do you think is the most important thing to do when you are listening? _____

8. What do you think that listening carefully to something means?

9. How are you able to remember what you have heard? _____

10. What do you think good listening skills require? _____

Question: Are you a good listener? How do you know?

What kind of a student are you in class? Do you talk a lot? Do you let the teacher know when you know the answer to a question? Are you a shy student? Find out what your level of class or seminar participation is by completing the activity below.

Directions: Interview your classmate and have your classmate interview you to determine whether you are more of an active or passive participant in class or seminars. After each question, circle the answer YES or NO.

Task: Now, using your partner's responses, rate his or her level of class/seminar participation on a scale of 1-10. (10 is the highest and 1 is the lowest score.)

Question: Are you an active or passive participant in classes or seminars? EXPLAIN.

Discuss: Being an active participant is necessary for learning.

Although you probably will enjoy your courses at the college, there may be times when you feel uncomfortable in the classroom.

Directions: Below are listed some typical uncomfortable situations. Together with your classmate(s) answer the questions: WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY? and/or WHAT SHOULD YOU DO?

Situations: Communication Problems in the Classroom

1. Having missed a class, you are given the handouts from that class by your teacher. However, after reading them, you realize that you don't understand the lesson. You are concerned.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
2. You see another student cheating on a test. The teacher does not notice what is going on.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
3. You feel that the teacher does not assign enough homework.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
4. You are not happy with a grade you received on an assignment. You feel that you have worked very hard and that your efforts should be recognized with a higher grade.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
5. You have missed a deadline for an important assignment.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
6. You feel that the teacher does not understand or even like you very much.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
7. The teacher asks you to work together with a classmate you do not like very much.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
8. You feel that the teacher is not treating all the students equally; s/he pays more attention to some than others.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
9. You feel that you are not learning very much from a course.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
10. You are having some personal problems outside of class that you know are affecting your school work and classroom performance.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?

Task: After answering the above questions, create a short dialogue with your classmate(s) for two of these situations. Be prepared to present your dialogues to the rest of the class.

EDUCATIONAL PREPARATION: Individual Goals and Evaluations for Learning English (11)

What are you doing on your own to help yourself learn English? Do you have specific goals that you are trying to attain in learning English? What are they? How are you trying to attain them? Are you having success?

WHAT DO YOU DO?
9. You have to answer 10 short-answer questions on an economics final.
WHAT DO YOU DO?
10. You have to answer 3 subjective questions on your sociology mid-term.
WHAT DO YOU DO?

Discuss: Knowing how to prepare for a test and how to complete an assignment are very important for academic success.
EXPLAIN (give examples).

EDUCATIONAL PREPARATION: Student Expectations of Teachers (17)

As a new student at Douglas College, what do you expect your teachers to be like? How do you expect them to act? What kinds of teachers are you used to in your own culture?

DIRECTIONS: Look at the list below and consider which expectations you have of your teachers here and which you do not. Put a plus sign (+) before those which you do have and a negative sign (-) before those you do not have.

Checklist: Student Expectations of Teachers

1. To begin classes on time. []
2. To take regular attendance. []
3. To phone students if they have missed several classes. []
4. To mark all the students' work. []
5. To have students complete many course assignments. []

Questions: Which of the above tasks do you find easy to do? Which do you find more difficult to do? Why?

Discuss: What students do to learn English outside the classroom may be just as important as what they do in the classroom, if not more so.

*Adapted from Barb Coward's "Learning the Language" Checklist, Douglas College: 1988.

EDUCATIONAL PREPARATION: Teacher Expectations (19)

As a new student living in a new country, what do you think your new teachers will expect of you? How will individual teachers differ in their expectations?

Directions: Together with your classmate(s), complete the ideas expressed below.

Incomplete Sentences: Teacher Expectations of Students

1. Teachers expect students to attend _____

2. Teachers expect students to complete _____

3. Teachers expect students to ask _____

4. Teachers expect students to work _____

5. Teachers expect students to participate _____

6. Teachers expect students to be _____

7. Teachers expect students to help _____

8. Teachers expect students to learn _____

9. Teachers expect students to let them know when _____

10. Teachers expect students to act _____

Discuss: Individual teachers may have different expectations of students. Explain (give examples).

EDUCATIONAL PREPARATION: Teaching and Learning Styles (20)

How do teachers in your own country go about their job? What do they do to help students learn? What do students do in order to learn? How do teachers in Canada teach and how do students learn? Explore some of the similarities and differences by completing the activities below.

Directions: First, in the "MY CULTURE" section, describe some of the things that teachers do to help students learn: also what the students do to learn. Next, with your classmate(s) try to describe what teachers and students do in the "NEW CULTURE" section. Then, compare the differences by answering the questions at the bottom of the page.

Descriptions: Teaching and Learning Styles

MY CULTURE	NEW CULTURE

Questions: What are some of the similarities and differences between the above ways of teaching and learning? What does this tell you about the two cultures or your own experiences?

Discuss: Teachers and students have individual styles of teaching and learning.

EDUCATIONAL PREPARATION: The Good Language Learner (21)

How do you go about learning a new language? What kinds of things do you do? What kinds of things should you do? What works best for you?

Directions: Below are listed ten characteristics which will help one become a good language learner. Mark with a plus sign (+) those which you think describe you. Mark with a negative sign (-) those which do not describe you.

Checklist: The Good Language Learner

1. _____ Tries to guess meanings.
2. _____ Tries to communicate; doesn't give up.
3. _____ Is outgoing; is not shy.
4. _____ Is willing to make mistakes in order to learn from them.
5. _____ Tries to be patient, even when s/he doesn't understand very much.
6. _____ Looks for patterns in the language.
7. _____ Watches to see if other people understand her/him.
8. _____ Tries to use any new knowledge or skills that s/he has learned.
9. _____ Tries to establish what the general idea or message is in language use.
10. _____ Practices, practices, and practices.

Question: Are you a good language learner? EXPLAIN.

*Adapted from Naiman, N., Frohlich, M., Stern, H.H., and Todesco's The Good Language Learner (1975).

EDUCATIONAL PREPARATION: The Ideal Student (22)

One culture's definition of an ideal student may differ from that of another culture.

Directions: Complete the activities below in order to discover some of the similarities and differences between your culture's ideal student and the North American ideal.

Descriptions and Comparisons: The Ideal Student

1. Describe your culture's ideal student in the left-hand column. Describe the behaviour of an ideal student in your culture in the right-hand column.

Description

Behaviour

2. Now describe in the columns below what you think an ideal North American student is and how s/he behaves.

Description

Behaviour

3. Finally, compare your answers for number 1 and 2 with instructors' descriptions of an ideal student and how s/he behaves.

Description

Behaviour

serious	studious
open-minded	organized

Question: Are you an ideal student? Explain your answer. (Give examples.)

EDUCATION PREPARATION: The Ideal Teacher (23)

One culture's definition of the ideal teacher may differ from that of another culture. For example, some cultures may think that an ideal teacher is very strict and formal whereas in other cultures the opposite may be true.

DIRECTIONS: Discover some of the similarities and differences between your culture's ideal teacher and the North American ideal by completing the chart below.

Descriptions: The Ideal Teacher

1. Describe what your culture's ideal teacher is like in the left-hand column. In the right-hand column describe what an ideal teacher does to help students learn.

Description	Behaviour

2. Now, ask at least two local native speakers to describe what a North American ideal teacher is like and how s/he behaves. Write their answers below.

Description	Behaviour

Task: Compare your answers with your classmate(s).

Questions: Are there any differences in your answers? Why do you think these differences exist?

Discuss: There are many different views on what an ideal teacher is and how s/he should act in order for students to learn.

EDUCATIONAL PREPARATION: Time Management (24)

Do you get your class assignments done on time? Do you leave them to the last minute? Are you usually prepared for your classes? Are you able to set aside time for leisure activities as well? Find out how well you manage your time by completing the activities below.

Directions: Decide which of the following you will do over the weekend and when you will do them. Also decide on the amount of time that you will spend on each activity. Then, fill in the timetable with your decisions.

SCHOOL ASSIGNMENTS		SOCIAL ACTIVITIES		OTHER
book report due Monday		movie with a friend on Friday		write letters
journal writing due Monday		friend's birthday party on		shop
economics mid-term on Wednesday		Saturday night		go for a walk
calculus mid-term on Friday		dinner with relatives on Sunday
TIME	FRIDAY	SATURDAY	SUNDAY morning afternoon
evening

Questions: Are there any items from the above list which you did not include in the timetable? If so, which ones? Why?

Discuss: Good time management is necessary in order for students to be successful.

EDUCATIONAL PREPARATION: Writing Skills and Strategies (25)

As college students, you will be required to complete written assignments and take written tests for your courses. How do you go about writing? Do you think that you write well? Do you know what teachers look for when they mark your assignments or tests?

Directions: Read the following descriptions to determine if you have good writing skills and strategies. Then, put a plus (+) sign before those writing skills and strategies you have and a negative (-) sign before those you do not have.

Checklist: Good Writing Skills and StrategiesSkills:

- _____ 1. Good writing is clear.
- _____ 2. Good writing is concise.
- _____ 3. Good writing expresses a clear point of view.
- _____ 4. Good writing is interesting to read.
- _____ 5. Good writing is easy to read.

Strategies:

- _____ 1. Good writers know their audience.
- _____ 2. Good writers read over their writing to check for mistakes.
- _____ 3. Good writers revise their writing.
- _____ 4. Good writers know why they are writing.
- _____ 5. Good writers first focus on what they have to say, then on how they say it.

Question: Do you have good writing skills and strategies? EXPLAIN.

Discuss: Good writers are often good readers.

HOST FAMILY: Communication Problems (26)

While your stay with your host family should be enjoyable for the most part, there may be times when things may become a bit uncomfortable and you must find some creative solutions to difficult problems.

DIRECTIONS: The following are situations you might find yourself in while living with a host family. Carefully read over the situations, then answer the question(s): WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO? Remember, there are no correct answers, per se; however, your answers should solve, rather than create, communication problems. You may work together with your classmate(s).

SITUATIONS: Communication Problems

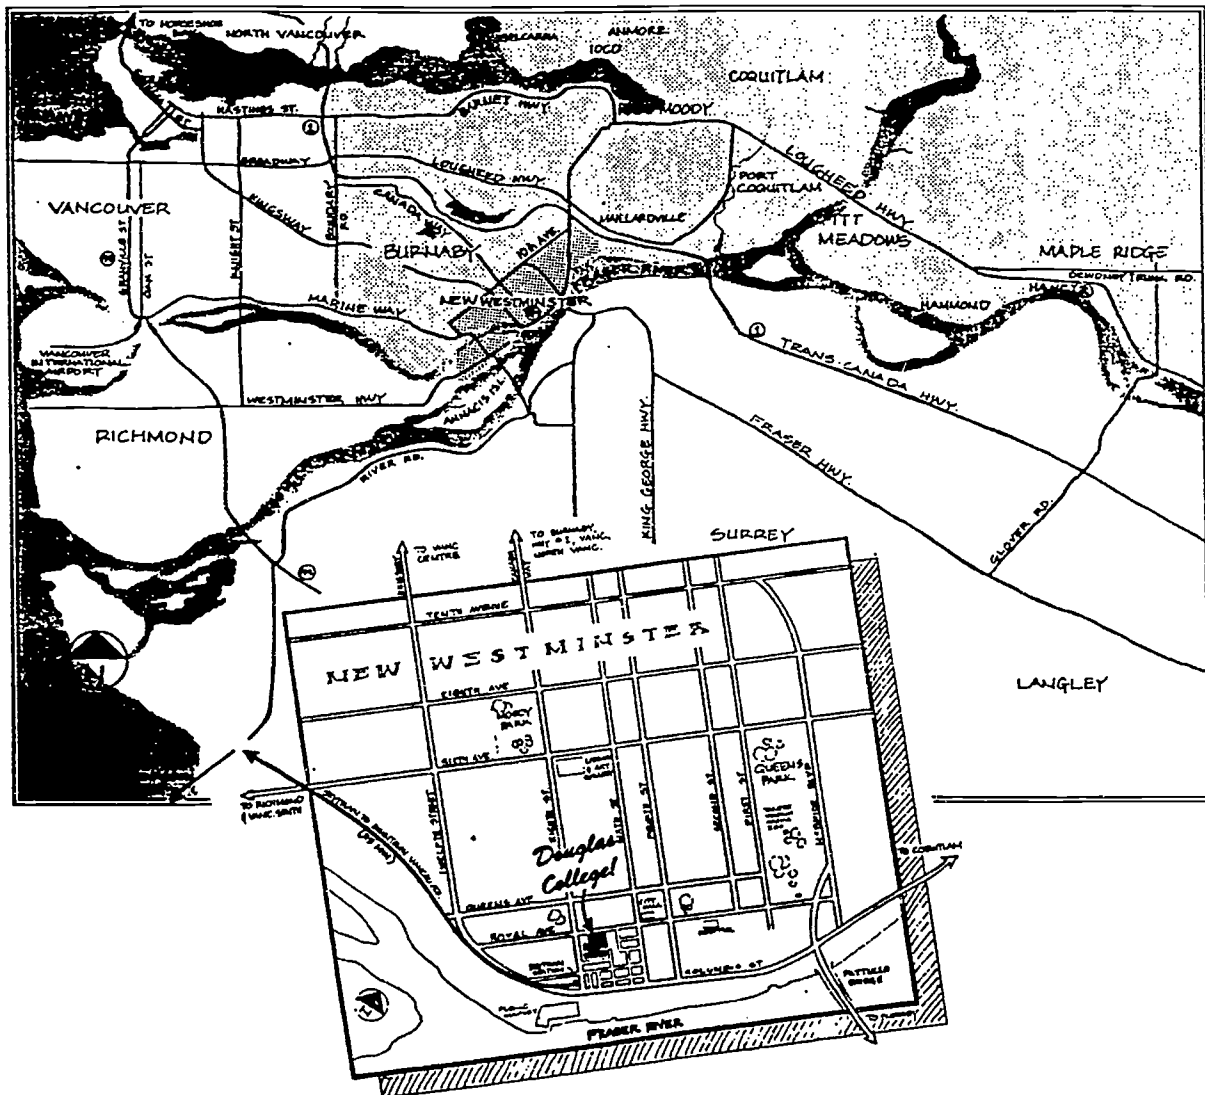

1. You like your host family but you are not enjoying their food, especially the packed lunches.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
2. It is 11 p.m. You are very tired and you want to go to bed but your host family would like to talk more with you.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
3. Your host family has made dinner for you and the rest of the family. One hour before dinner is to be served, a friend of yours calls and invites you out to dinner.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
4. Your host family knows how to speak your first language and they would like to practice with you. You, however, would prefer that they speak to you only in English.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
5. Your host family has made several plans to take you to places in Vancouver and to spend time with their family and friends. You, however, have been living with them for a while and would prefer to spend more time by yourself and with your friends.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
6. You find out that one of your classmates is living with what seems to be a better host family than yours.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
7. You have been placed with a host family that does not seem to understand you or relate to you very well.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
8. You are a very clean and tidy person. Your host family's house, however, is not as clean and tidy as your own.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?

Task: Together with your classmate(s), create a short dialogue for two of the above situations. Be prepared to present them to the class.

HOST FAMILY: Commuting Directions (27)

Below is a map of Greater Vancouver and the Douglas College District.

- Contact Assignment:
- 1) Ask your host family how to get to Douglas College from their house by whatever transportation you will be using (bus, Skytrain, bicycle, car, or any combination).
 - 2) Make sure you understand the directions clearly. Write them down on the map below.
 - 3) Finally, be prepared to explain to a classmate how to get to Douglas College from your host family's house, and vice versa.

HOST FAMILY: Conversation Topics (28)

While living with a host family you may sometimes find yourself running out of things to talk about. The following is a list of conversational topics which you or your hosts can easily talk about.

DIRECTIONS: Working together with your classmate(s), see if you can add any topics to the list. Write them down in the space provided.

List: Conversation Topics

- the weather
- Vancouverites
- places worth visiting in Vancouver, in B.C., or in Canada
- good places to shop
- activities costing $5.00 or less
- suggestions for good, reasonably priced restaurants
- Vancouver's ethnic groups
- your own culture or country
- your own family members
- cultural differences/similarities
- holiday experiences
- observations you have made about Vancouverites
- celebration of national holidays and special days of the year
- hobbies and leisure activities
- the history/politics of Vancouver, of B.C., or of Canada
- current international affairs
- Canadian cultural heroes
- Canadian sports
- experiences living in different cultures
- movies, books, plays, t.v. programs/series that you have enjoyed
- friends

Your Additions?

Questions: What are some topics that are easy to talk about in your own culture/country? Are these topics the same as the above? What topics in your own culture are only easy to talk about with close friends?

Contact Assignment: Find out some topics that are generally avoided by people in Canada, especially between strangers. Write these topics down on the back of the page. Be prepared to share them with your classmates.

HOST FAMILY: Health and Safety Information (29)

Have you been sick or had to deal with an emergency situation since you have been here?

DIRECTIONS: Read over the attached pages in order to learn where you can get help in these situations. Then, fill in the blanks with the correct answers. You may work together with your classmate(s).

Information Questions: Health and SafetyA. DOUGLAS COLLEGE

1. If you find yourself in an emergency situation on campus during the day, where can you go to get help?

2. If you are at Douglas College in the evening and there is an emergency, what telephone number can you call for help?

3. Where is the closest Public Health Unit to Douglas College and when is it open?

B. GREATER VANCOUVER AREA

1. What is the emergency number for the Vancouver Area?

2. What are the emergency numbers for the following areas? Write them on the blank lines.

	Fire	Police	Ambulance
Burnaby	_____	_____	_____
Coquitlam	_____	_____	_____
New Westminster	_____	_____	_____
Surrey	_____	_____	_____

3. If you do not have your telephone book with you and you need to contact an emergency number what should you dial? What is the most important information to give to the operator?

EMERGENCY CAMPUS FIRST AID

In case of an accident/injury that requires first aid assistance call:

MONDAY - FRIDAY (8 A.M. - 7 P.M.)
LOCAL 8080
or ALTERNATE LOCALS 6060/7070
7 p.m. to Midnight
LOCAL 5050

The First Aid Room does not have an Attendant in it at all times. If you need help, call one of the above locals or go to the Security desk. If you are injured or have an accident while on Campus or on Practicum, be sure to advise your instructor of the nature of the injury. This protects you and the College in the event of complications.

The two Maple Ridge campuses have different procedures for the handling of medical emergencies. For information on procedures please check with the office personnel at either site.

MEDICAL INSURANCE

Students are responsible for their own Medical and Hospital insurance. Some may continue coverage under their parents Medical Plans. Others should check private/personal coverage.

HEALTH/DENTAL

The closest Public Health Unit to Douglas College is the Simon Fraser Health Unit, located at 537 Carnarvon Street (3 blocks away). They are open MONDAY - FRIDAY, 8:30 - 4:30, and offer a wide range of services. For further information or an appointment CALL 525-3661.

The Dental students at Douglas College, at certain times in the year, offer free teeth cleaning - watch the bulletin boards for postings of information and dates.

EDUCATIONAL PREPARATION: Communication Problems in the Classroom (10)

Although you probably will enjoy your courses at the college, there may be times when you feel uncomfortable in the classroom.

Directions: Below are listed some typical uncomfortable situations. Together with your classmate(s) answer the questions: WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY? and/or WHAT SHOULD YOU DO?

Situations: Communication Problems in the Classroom

1. Having missed a class, you are given the handouts from that class by your teacher. However, after reading them, you realize that you don't understand the lesson. You are concerned.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
2. You see another student cheating on a test. The teacher does not notice what is going on.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
3. You feel that the teacher does not assign enough homework.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
4. You are not happy with a grade you received on an assignment. You feel that you have worked very hard and that your efforts should be recognized with a higher grade.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
5. You have missed a deadline for an important assignment.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
6. You feel that the teacher does not understand or even like you very much.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
7. The teacher asks you to work together with a classmate you do not like very much.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
8. You feel that the teacher is not treating all the students equally; s/he pays more attention to some than others.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
9. You feel that you are not learning very much from a course.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?
10. You are having some personal problems outside of class that you know are affecting your school work and classroom performance.
WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY/DO?

Task: After answering the above questions, create a short dialogue with your classmate(s) for two of these situations. Be prepared to present your dialogues to the rest of the class.

 - a. often
 - b. occasionally
 - c. never
5. You expect your host family to interact with you _____
 - a. mostly formally
 - b. mostly casually
 - c. sometimes formally and sometimes casually

Questions: Does your host family know what you expect of them? Do you know what your host family expects of you?

Discuss: Some students may have unrealistic expectations of their host families. Explain (give examples).

HOST FAMILY: Using the Telephone (32)

While living here you may find that you have to use the telephone on some occasions. The following are some problematic situations you might experience with using the telephone.

DIRECTIONS: Carefully read each situation. Then, together with your partner, decide on an appropriate response for each. Write it down in the space provided.

Problem Situations: Using the Telephone

1. Your host family is out. They have asked you to answer the telephone and to take messages for them when they are not home. Someone telephones and asks to speak to your host mother.

WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY?

2. In the evening you decide you want to talk to a friend from your English class so you telephone her/him. Her/his host mother answers and tells you that your friend is not there.

WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY?

3. You phone a friend who has an answering machine. You hear a taped message which says that no one is home right now and to leave a message.

WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY?

4. You call B.C. Transit to find out some bus information. However, you discover that you cannot understand what the person who answers is saying to you.

WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY?

5. The telephone rings and you answer it. No one is home. The caller, however, asks you to donate money to a charity.

WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY?

6. You are trying to telephone someone. A stranger answers and you realize that you must have dialed the number incorrectly.

WHAT SHOULD YOU SAY?

Task: After answering the above questions, create a short dialogue with your partner for each telephone situation. Be prepared to present them to the rest of the class.

HOST FAMILY: Your Host Family and Your Own Family (33)

You have been living with a host family for a while. What is your host family like? What is your own family like? How is your host family similar to your family? How is it different?

DIRECTIONS: Describe and compare your own family with your host family by completing the chart below.

Descriptions and Comparisons: Your Host Family and Your Own Family

A. Describe the members of your family (age, sex, physical features, personalities, interests, habits, etc.)

YOUR FAMILY	HOST FAMILY

B. Describe the roles of the members of your family (who does the housework, who works outside the home, who looks after the children, who makes the financial decisions, etc.)

YOUR FAMILY	HOST FAMILY

Questions: Why do you think these similarities/differences exist? What do they tell you about your own and the Canadian culture?

SOCIAL ADAPTATION: Adjustment Factors (34)

Living in a new culture and speaking a new language presents many challenges and difficulties.

DIRECTIONS: Below is a list of some of the areas in which you may experience difficulty. Rank these in order from most to least difficult. As there are 10 items in total, the most difficult one will be numbered 1, the least difficult numbered 10. After you have finished ranking them on your own, rank them again with your partner. Then rank them once again with a group of classmates. Finally, rank them with the entire class.

QUESTIONS: Are there any patterns in the above results? If so, what are they and why do you think they exist?

SOCIAL ADAPTATION: Adjusting to a Different Way of Life (35)

You have been living in a foreign country for quite some time now. Have you felt comfortable living here? Was it easy getting used to a different way of life?

DIRECTIONS: Complete the ideas below on how you have or have not adjusted to living in the new culture. You may work with your classmate(s).

Incomplete Sentences: Adjusting to a Different Way of Life

1. Living here has been _____
2. When I first came here I _____
3. Often I would _____
4. Sometimes I felt _____
5. Eventually I could _____
6. Most of the time I would _____
7. I hardly ever felt _____
8. Usually I could _____
9. Now I feel _____
10. In the future I will be able to _____ Task: After you have completed the above, tell your classmate(s) how you have or have not adjusted to living a different way of life and why (give examples).

Discussion: It takes a long time to adjust to living in a new culture.

SOCIAL ADAPTATION: Communicating Between Cultures (36)

What is it like to communicate with people in a different language while living in a foreign culture? Do you enjoy these intercultural experiences? Do you find them difficult?

DIRECTIONS: Below are some statements about the process of communicating with people in a different culture who speak a different language. With your classmate(s), respond to the statements by answering the question: What do you think?

General Statements: Communicating Between Cultures

1. Usually there are few communication problems when speaking with someone who knows your first language and who is from the same culture as yourself.
WHAT DO YOU THINK?
2. Most people generally view the world in the same way.
WHAT DO YOU THINK?
3. It is easier to communicate with someone in a different language when we are living in our own country.
WHAT DO YOU THINK?
4. If we can speak a language fluently, we are not likely to experience problems when communicating in that language.
WHAT DO YOU THINK?
5. If we are good communicators in our first language, we will likely be good communicators when speaking a second language.
WHAT DO YOU THINK?
6. We actually think and act differently when we speak a different language.
WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Question: How is communicating in a second language different than communicating in a first language?

SOCIAL ADAPTATION: Communicating Without Words (37)

Because most communication between people is expressed without words, learning the non-verbal signs of a second culture may be nearly as important as learning the language itself. See if you know what the following non-verbal signs mean.

DIRECTIONS: Complete the following sentences by answering the question word in the parenthesis. You may work with your classmate(s).

Incomplete Sentences: Communicating Without Words

1. If you see a male and female walking down the street holding hands, they probably are _____.(relationship?)
2. If you see a group of students talking together, they probably are _____.(relationship?)

5. If you are invited to a friend's house for dinner at 7:00, you should arrive there at _____.(time?)
6. If someone looks at their watch while you are speaking to them, they are probably in a _____.(condition?)
7. If someone shrugs their shoulders when you ask them a question, this might mean that _____.(comprehension?)
8. If someone raises their eyebrows at you while you are doing something, they are probably _____.(feeling?)
9. If someone shakes their head from side to side at you, they are probably _____.(feeling?)
10. If someone winks at you, they may want to share a _____.(what?)

Contact Assignment: Ask a Canadian native speaker to share with you 2 non-verbal signs and their meanings which you did not know before. Be prepared to share these with the rest of the class.

SOCIAL ADAPTATION: Community Information, Resources, and Support Services (38)

As a visitor to B.C. you may be interested in learning what government services are available to help people adjust to life in a new culture.

DIRECTIONS: The attached sheet lists some of the community organizations offering cultural adaptation assistance to individuals. Look over the list and then decide which organization would be most appropriate to contact in each of the following situations. Write your answers in the space provided.

Cultural Adaptation Situations: Community Information, Resources, and Support Services

1. You would like to get a translation of a document that you need for Canadian Immigration.

2. You are Chinese and are interested in meeting members of the local Chinese-Canadian community.

3. You are an unemployed woman and need some help with your career plans.

4. You are a new immigrant and are experiencing many problems adjusting to the new culture and language.

5. You are an immigrant and would like to obtain more information about the services available to immigrants.

Questions: Have you ever experienced any of these situations? If so, which one(s)? Share your experience(s) with your classmate(s).

Contact Assignment: From the list of organizations above, choose one that you would like to find out more information about. Go to the organization and learn whatever you can about them by asking questions and getting any written information they may have. Be prepared to share what you have learned with your classmate(s).

SOURCES OF INFORMATION AND ASSISTANCE

It is most difficult to provide a full and complete directory of all sources of information and assistance available to British Columbians throughout all the communities of the province.

Below is a partial listing of resources which may be useful.

You are encouraged to use the facilities within your own community to locate the information you are seeking. You will find that public libraries, community centres, community information centres, and your church or school will be most cooperative and able to give you helpful direction. Above all, the local telephone directory can be your most useful and readily available reference source.
